BOLM O. BURSUM, FIRST GOV-ERNOR OF THE STATE.

The Republicans of New Mexico are to be congratulated on the selection of the choice made by their representatives in Las Vegas for the man to lead the ticket in the coming campaign. There could have been no stronger selection and the harmony and enthusiasm with which the nomination was made insures the triumphant victory of the state ticket in the November election.

Mr. Bursum's nomination does not come in any sense as a surprise to those who have observed the trend of political events in New Mexico. So insistent has been the demand for his candidate from all sections of the state and from all classes of the voters that his selection as the head of the ticket by an overwhelming majority has been a foregone conclusion for several weeks. The poisoned arrows that have been aimed at him by a small coterie of self-seeking political rogues, temporarily masquerading as Republicans, have only served to crystallize the sentiment in his favor and cause his host of loyal friends to work more actively and zealously in his interest. As is always the case, these attacks reacted in direct proportion to the malignant energy with which they were prosecuted, and Mr. Bursum was indeed fortunate in the enemies that he had made.

Strong, virile, a man of affairs and yet in the truest sense a man of the plain people, typifying in his person and his career the buoyant, energetic spirit of the glorious west of which he is so intimately a part, Mr. Bursum is an ideal candidate to lead the Republican hosts to victory in their first state campaign, and will be an ideal governor for the newest and best state in the union. With the reins of government in his strong hands, the laborer need fear no oppression, the capitalist no confiscation.
The man on the street, the man at the plow, the man in the depths of the mine, the man in every walk of our complex life will rest secure in the assurance that the laws of the land will be administered honestly and courageously, and that exact and equal justice will be done to every man within the borders of the state.

THE FORT DODGE SPEECH.

Yesterday at Fort Dodge President Taft delivered one of the really great speeches for which he has become noted, and which have stamped him as one of the ablest statesmen that has ever occupied the presidential chair.

In the heart of what an antagonistic press has been pleased to term "the enemy's country," the president spoke with a clear, resolute courage which left no room for doubt as to his position on the vital issues of the hour, and made such a definite declaration of party policy that he will be a poor Republican indeed who can find anything objectionable in what was said.

On the subject of the tariff he but reiterated the views which he has given public utterance on many occasions in the past. The familiar Republican doctrine of protection to American industry and American labor was vigorously reaffirmed, with the promise that any needed revision in the existing tariff must come only after careful study has been given the subject by men of expert knowledge and experience, and not in the haphazard, unscientific manner proposed by Democratic leaders, the certain effect of which would be to unsettle business and endanger prosperity. On this subject, which has been made the point of greatest attack against the president, Mr. Taft was especially clear and logical, and it is difficult to see how any one not committed to the Democratic abomination of free trade can find fault with his views as expressed in the Fort Dodge speech.

Equally convincing were the president's remarks on the subject of railroad regulation, control of the trusts and the maintenance of a sound financial system; and not the least commendable part of his address was that in which he appealed to the country for justice and fairness toward the great combinations of capital upon the success of which, to so large an extent, the prosperity of the country depends, and which, through the ceaseless activity of unscrupulous demagogues, it has become so popular to denounce and seek to annihilate.

The Fort Dodge speech will greatly strengthen the president in every part of the country and among all classes of men, and will surely confound his enemies. It creates an excited patriotism which is above all party lines and yet is the truest participation, because it is founded on the eternal principles of right and truth to which all good men must claim allegiance.

Mr. Taft very truly says that "we in this country are all in the same boat." And what a pity it is that there must always be some fool to rock the boat.

Somewhat we can't seem to work up to any very high pitch of enthusiasm over the race for president down in Mexico. There doesn't seem to be the same snap and danger of assault and battery in their politics that we are accustomed to on this side of the line.

With Governor Bursum in charge of affairs at home, and with two equally good, sound Republicans in the senate and another in the house of representatives, nothing on earth can hold us back from the greatest era of prosperity that we have ever known.

With Ty Cobb at the fair, what chance would such smit try as candidates for governor, United States senator and the like have to attract public attention?

On the congenial subject of chess the Journal-Democrat this morning discourses in a most illuminating manner. The biggest piece of chess in the world—of course you see the connection.

We have yet to hear whether Jack Johnson still stands by his Fourth of July interview in which he repudiated Old Glory and adopted the Union Jack as his very own.

If the air of Albuquerque won't support an aeroplane, it will be the only thing that doesn't thrive in this glorious ozone.

If the what-are-you-going-to-doabout-it editor don't hurry up and give the answer to his riddle, somebody will certainly bust wide open with curiosity.

Like the small boy who tickled the hind foot of the mule, the Journal-Democrat doesn't look so well this morning, but we trust it has learned a lesson.

The Denver woman who took a shot at her husband demonstrated that a six-shooter has the divorce court beat forty ways for speed and efficacy.

Jim Jeffries, William Jennings Bryan, Hackenschmidt, the Journal-Democrat—but why multiply illustrations to show that they never come back?

Cheese! At last the Journal-Democrat has found a subject that it can discuss safely and with a fair degree of intelligence.

There seems to be no imminent danger that any of the ocean-to-ocean aviators will cross the continent in advance of President Taft.

It is too much to hope that the Journal-Democrat may yet grasp the idea that the surest way to elect your enemy is to vilify and malign him?

It is to be hoped that the war against Turkey will not be used as an excuse to raise prices around Thanksgiving day.

Remember the words of Admiral Scheie: "Don't cheer, boys; those poor fellows are dying."

All right, mister, we'll bite. What ARE you going to do about it?

ANNOUNCEMENT.

By request of my Republican friends I have agreed to announce myself as a candidate for judge of the district court of the Second judicial district, which is composed of the counties of Bernalillo, McKinley and Sandoval.

I do so with the understanding that my candidacy will be subject to the action of the Republican delegates of the above mentioned counties in the state convention.

YEARLY REPORTS TO CONFERENCE ARE GRATIFYING

Ministers Should Be Loyal to Their Work and Learn to Take Knocks Without Whimpering Says Quayle.

Both the Methodist Mission conference and the Spanish Mission conference, in session in Albuquerque, got down to business early this morning and executed a large amount of business during the morning and afternoon. At the Methodist mission devotions were held at 9 a. m. by Rev.
C. E. Landquist, of Narrows, N. M. Following devotions the English mission was convened by Bishop William A. Quayle. Immediately following convening Bishop Quayle gave an informal address to the preachers on "The Privilege of Being a Methodist Preacher." The point that the bishop brought out strongly was that preachers under orders should be loyal to their work and should learn to take the hard knocks without whimpering.

The minutes of yesterday's session were read and approved, after Bishop Quayle had finished speaking. J. M. Shimer and C. E. Landquist were elected to elders' orders under the missionary rule, subject to further approval by the necessary authorities. The reports of committees read today were very gratifying to everybody. At 3 o'clock this afternoon, the Women's Home and Foreign societies met and considered such business as was brought before the meeting. The afternoon session of the Spanish Mission conference was held in the Presbyterian church.

WILL ELECT DELEGATES TO STATE CONVENTION AT SANTA FE.
HARMONIOUS SESSION CONFIDENTLY EXPECTED.

The Bernallito county Democratic convention will be held in the Elks' theater tomorrow morning, beginning at 10 o'clock. The convention will be called to order by Chairman Isaac Barth.
Democrats in close touch with the situation say that the session will be entirely harmonious and that a strong delegation will be sent to the state convention in Santa Fe.

PERSONALS.

It is announced that the lawyers of Bernalillo county are going to be called upon in the near future to do nights not more than one dollar each to a good cause. The contributions will be used as premiums for the largest variety of preserves to the First State fair. The display is to be for the purpose of demonstrating the jams available in New Mexico for preserving purposes.

Walther Allen, a former student and teacher at the University of New Mexico, arrived today from Santa Rita, N. M., where he has been for several months with the Santa Rita Mining Company. Mr. Allen expects to leave shortly for Schenectady, N. Y., and will enter the employ of the General Electric Works.

Bishop William A. Quayle, D. D., D. D., will deliver his last lecture, "Sibyl and David" tonight in the Methodist church corner Third and Lead, at eight o'clock. As evidenced last night in his temperance lecture, Bishop Quayle is an entertaining lecturer, who knows whereof he speaks. His reputation as a lecturer is country-wide and the lecture which will be delivered tonight is generally recognized as his best. To those who are not acquainted with the speaker's ability the New Mexico English mission wishes to commend tonight's lecture. It will be well worth your time to hear it.
